AND A SOUL TALKS TO A SOUL...

Abstract

The current paper is the logical and profound continuation of my previous article «The language of feelings (from animal and people lives)». The present study aims at analyzing religious, philosophical, and lingual-cultural aspects of the concept «soul». It is viewed as the trinity of mind, will and feelings. The variation of moral and ethical postulates in different epochs is demonstrated. Critical comments concerning the factor of gender in human behavior including speech behavior are made. The idea of speech being indifferent to gender and, as a consequence of that, the impossibility of finding speech correlates of gender is advocated.

Keywords: soul, language, mind, psyche, morale, will, speech reflection, feelings.
