

Abstract

The article views semiotic and functional aspects of the language of feeling of higher animals in different types of activities. Similarity and differences of the languages of animals and human beings as identical semiotic systems are described. Some forms of verbalizing of the language of feelings and its perception in everyday life and in the sphere art (painting, sculpture, dancing) are analyzed.