

UDC 811'111:81'373.72

Anna D. Bakina
Orel State University
Oryol, Russian Federation heart-anna@yandex.ru

REVIEW OF THE BOOK BY T. N. FEDULENKOVA
«LECTURES ON ENGLISH PHRASEOLOGY OF BIBLICAL ORIGIN»

Abstract

The peer-reviewed publication reflects the results of a thorough multidimensional study of phraseological units of biblical origin (biblieisms). The book is a lecture course equipped with a number of applications, designed to provide the audience with the basics of English biblical phraseology, as well as to present a comprehensive idea of phraseology development as a separate linguistic field, its objectives and targets, concepts and theories in the diachronic and synchronous aspects, including the latest approaches to the study of biblical phraseological units, on the structural and functional features of phraseologisms of biblical origin, the problem of systemicity in phraseology and the evidence of systemicity of biblieisms, including semantic modification of the prototype, symbolic transformation of biblical phraseologisms, their variable nature, their belonging to the thematic group, the connections of their functioning.

Keywords: bibleisms, nomination, functional space, semantic transformation, prototype, symbol, symbolic transformation, variability, systemicity, structural-semantic class, thematic group.

doi: 10.22250/2410-7190_2020_6_3_205_210